Flown Personally Signed by Dr John M Fabian (Colonel USAF Retired) Orbiter Challenger STS7 and STS51 G Mission Specialist. NASA EXPERIENCE: Selected as an astronaut candidate by NASA in January 1978, and became an astronaut in August 1979. During the following years, he worked extensively on satellite deployment and retrieval activities, including development of the Canadian Remote Manipulator System. A veteran of two space flights, he has logged over 316 hours in space. He served as a mission specialist on STS-7 (June 18-24, 1983) and STS-51G (June 17-24, 1985). He was scheduled to fly next in May 1986 on STS-61G. This flight was one of several deferred by NASA in the wake of the Challenger accident. Fabian left NASA on January 1, 1986 to become Director of Space, Deputy Chief of Staff, Plans and Operations, Headquarters USAF. Colonel Fabian retired from the USAF in June 1987 and joined Analytic Services Inc (ANSER), a non-profit aerospace professional services firm in Arlington, Virginia, where he is now President and Chief Executive Officer. SPACE FLIGHT EXPERIENCE: Fabian first flew as a mission specialist on STS-7, which launched from Kennedy Space Center, Florida, on June 18, 1983. This was the second flight for the Orbiter Challenger and for the first mission with a 5-person crew. During the mission, the crew deployed satellites for Canada (ANIK C-2) and Indonesia (PALAPA B-1): operated the Canadian-built Remote Manipulator System (RMS) to perform the first deployment and retrieval exercise with the Shuttle Pallet Satellite (SPAS-01): conducted the first formation flying of the Orbiter with a free-flying satellite (SPAS-01): carried and operated the first U. S. /German cooperative materials science payload (OSTA-2): and operated the Continuous Flow Electrophoresis System (CFES) and the Monodisperse Latex Reactor (MLR) experiments, in addition to activating seven Getaway Specials, Mission duration was 147 hours before landing at Edwards Air Force Base, California, on June 24, 1983. On his second mission, Fabian flew on STS 51-G which launched from the Kennedy Space Center, Florida, on June 17, 1985, and landed at Edwards Air Force Base, California, on June 24, 1985, after completing approximately 170 hours of space flight. This international crew deployed communications satellites for Mexico (Morelos), the Arab League (Arabsat), and the United Stated (ATandT Telstar). They used the Remote Manipulator System (RMS) to deploy and later retrieve the SPARTAN satellite which performed 17 hours of x-ray astronomy experiments while separated from the Space Shuttle. In addition, the crew activated the Automated Directional Solidification Furnace (ADSF), six Getaway Specials, participated in biomedical experiments, and conducted a laser tracking experiment as part of the Strategic Defence Initiative. Certified Copy No 0011 of 160 Signed Project Co-ordinator.. Good condition Est. £16 - 18

85 - Lieut General Sir Philip Neame VC signed Royal Engineers cover. When serving with 15 Field Coy RE. Neame was 26 years old when the following deed took place, for which he received the Victoria Cross: On 19 December 1914 at Neuve Chapelle, France, Lieutenant Neame, in the face of very heavy fire, engaged the Germans in a single-handed bombing attack, killing and wounding a number of them. He was able to check the enemy advance for threequarters of an hour and to rescue all the wounded whom it was possible to move. During a minor night trench action on the Western Front in the Neuve Chapelle district five days before Christmas 1914, Neame was leading a party of sappers in action when he was requested by the commanding officer of a battalion of the West Yorkshire Regiment to go forward and to strengthen the defences in a recently captured German trench. When he got there he met another commissioned officer who informed him that the Germans were counter-attacking with bombs, that his own bombers had all been wounded and that the bombs that were left would not go off. At this Neame went further up the trench to the contact point to talk to one of the surviving bombers there, and discovered that the problem was that he wasn't able use the bombs because there were no fuzee matches left. Neame, knowing how to technically ignite the grenades without a fuzee match by holding a regular match-head on the grenade's fuse and striking a match box across it, commenced lighting and throwing grenades in this fashion into the German trenches at the two different directions where a German dawn counter-attack was materializing, holding it back whilst under continual return fire for forty-five minutes whilst the West Yorks Regiment evacuated its wounded behind him back towards the original British frontline trench. Neame was promoted to the rank of captain in 1915, and was mentioned in despatches in February 1915, and again in January 1916. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Order (DSO) in January 1916. 118 - WW2 BOB pilot Air Cdre R Berry DSO DFC signed Airborne forces Tunisia cover WW2 RAF Battle of Britain pilot, he later flew in North Africa numbered 5 of 10 issued. Flown by Hercules and also signed by the crew. Air Commodore Ronald Berry, CBE, DSO, DFC and Bar (3 May 1917 - September 2000) was a British flying ace and senior officer of the Royal Air Force (RAF) during the Second World War and the postwar period. During his service with the RAF, he was credited with shooting down at least fourteen aircraft with several more shared with other pilots. Born in Kingston upon Hull, Berry joined the Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve in 1937 and was called up for service in the RAF upon the outbreak of the Second World War. Posted to No. 603 Squadron, he flew extensively in the Battle of Britain during which he achieved a number of his aerial victories. For much of 1941 he served as a fighter controller at Turnhouse. Given command of No. 81 Squadron early the following year, he led it through the campaign in North Africa through late 1942 to early 1943, switching to leading No. 322 Wing in March. He returned to the United Kingdom and spent the remainder of the war in training and staff posts. Remaining in the RAF in the postwar period, he served in a variety of roles with Fighter Command, Bomber Command and the Air Ministry. He ended his military career in early 1969, having reached the rank of air commodore. He retired to Hornsea and died in September 2000, aged 83. Good condition Est. £6 - 8

120 - WW2 BOB pilot ACM Harry Broadhurst signed Avro Lincoln bomber cover WW2 RAF Battle of Britain pilot, BOB Officer Commanding RAF Wittering, often flew with the squadrons under his command, both day and night fighter units. Air Chief Marshal Sir Harry Broadhurst, GCB, KBE, DSO and Bar, DFC and Bar, AFC (28 October 1905 - 29 August 1995), commonly known as Broady, was a senior Royal Air Force commander and flying ace of the Second World War. In May 1940, Broadhurst was appointed Station Commander at RAF Coltishall, before joining No. 60 Wing in France as wing commander. [2] He participated in ground support during the Battle of France, an experience that taught him the importance of close air support for later operations in the war. He was heavily involved in the Battle of Britain and as Officer Commanding RAF Wittering, [2] often flew with the squadrons under his command, both day and night fighter units. Harry Broadhurst by Cuthbert Orde, 1941. In December 1940, he was posted to command the Hornchurch Sector of No. 11 Group Fighter Command, and continued to fly on operations, even as a group captain. On 4 July 1941, leading No. 54 Squadron as Red 1, he was involved in a dogfight with Bf 109s, claiming two Bf 109Es destroyed at 15. 30 over Béthune before he was hit and his aircraft badly damaged by a Bf 109. He managed to return to base, belly landing his crippled Spitfire, with slight splinters in left arm and left thigh. On 7 July 1941 his Spitfire Mk. Vb was severely damaged by a JG 26 pilot. In the combat he was Red 1 and claimed 1-1-0 Bf 109F at 09. 50 over Gravelines area. In May 1942 he became Senior Air Staff Officer (SASO), No. 11 Group, although he continued to fly operationally where possible. His final kill claims were made on 19 August 1942, bringing his total to 13 destroyed, seven probables and 10 damaged. General Sir Bernard Montgomery with his senior officers at Eighth Army Headquarters at Vasto, Italy, 1943. From left to right, Freddie de Guingand, Harry Broadhurst, Montgomery, Sir Bernard Freyberg, Miles Dempsey and Charles Allfrey. In late 1942, he was posted to the Middle East and became Senior Air Staff Officer (SASO) to Air Vice Marshal Arthur Coningham, commander of the Desert Air Force (DAF). [2] Broadhurst came into conflict with Coningham over the use and objectives of the Desert Air Force. Broadhurst took command of the DAF in January 1943, [2] becoming (at the age of 38) the youngest (until Air Commodore Don Bennett was so promoted on 6 December 1943 at the age of 33) air vice marshal in the Royal Air Force. He quickly perfected the way he perceived fighter aircraft ought to be employed as ground support fighter-bombers. His fighter squadrons were trained intensively to strafe and bomb German and Italian vehicles, tanks, transport and communication lines. This aerial cover of the 8th Army won the approval and appreciation of General Bernard Montgomery and would form the basis of the ground attack principles used during the D-Day landings and beyond. Broadhurst's enthusiastic backing of the Army and his frank opinions did not always go down well with his superiors in the RAF. He returned to the UK in 1944 to command No. 83 Group, [2] part of 2nd Tactical Air Force. In September 1945, he became Air Officer Administration at RAF Fighter Command. Good condition Est. £6 - 8

125 - Army Air Corps cover Signed by General Mark W Clark Commander US 5th Army during invasion of Italy. 31 Jul 71 BFPS 1176 Army Air Day. Black Flown Cachet. Personally Signed by General Mark W Clark DSC Commander of US 5th Army during invasion of Italy. 1943 and Capture of Rome 1944. Mark Wayne Clark (May 1, 1896 - April 17, 1984) was an American general during World War II and the Korean War and was the youngest lieutenant general (three-star general) in the U. S. Army. During World War I, he commanded a company of soldiers in 1917 and was seriously wounded by shrapnel. After the war, Clark's abilities were noticed by future U. S. Army Chief of Staff George Marshall. During World War II, he commanded the Allied Fifth Army, and later the Fifteen Army Group, in the Italian campaign. He is known for leading the Fifth Army in its capture of Rome in June 1944. Clark has been heavily criticised for ignoring the orders of his superior officer, General Alexander, and is to blame for the escape of the German 10th Army which he let slip away in his pursuit of being the first to enter Rome - a strategically unimportant city. The German 10th Army joined with their countrymen at the Trasimene Line. In 1945 Clark became the youngest American to be promoted to general. General Dwight D. Eisenhower considered him a brilliant staff officer and trainer. Clark was awarded many medals, including the Distinguished Service Cross, the U. S. Army's second highest award. 133 - Battle of Britain Grp Capt Frank Carey DFC AFC DFM 43 Sqn signed 50th ann BOB cover WW2 RAF Battle of Britain pilot RAFA4, The Major assault, Scarce cover many were damaged so few around now. Frank Reginald Chota Carey, CBE, DFC and Two Bars, AFC, DFM (7 May 1912 - 6 December 2004) was a Royal Air Force (RAF) fighter pilot and flying ace who served during World War II. Born in Brixton, London, Carey was educated at Belvedere School before he joined the RAF in September 1927 at the age of 15 as an apprentice metal rigger. After completing the apprenticeship Carey was assigned to No. 43 Squadron RAF based at RAF Tangmere. In 1933 he converted to the role of fitter at RAF Worthy Down. In 1935 he applied to become a fighter pilot and completed the training in 1936. Carey was posted back to 43 Squadron and by 1939 was an established pilot. At the outbreak of World War II in September 1939 Carey flew defensive patrols over eastern Scotland, where he gained his first successes. He was awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal (DFM) in February 1940 for several shared air victories. Commissioned as pilot officer in April 1940, he transferred to No. 3 Squadron RAF and participated in the Battle of France. In May he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross (DFC) for seven enemy aircraft shot down and two probably shot down. On 14 June he received a Bar to the DFC and a promotion to flying officer. From 9 July to 18 August 1940 Carey flew in the Battle of Britain. He accounted for a further nine enemy aircraft destroyed, three probably destroyed, and one damaged but was wounded in July and again in August. His wounds were severe and he took no further part in the battle. In November 1940 he was posted to Operational Training Unit (OTU) 52 as an instructor. Carey was given command of No. 135 Squadron RAF, as acting squadron leader, in August 1941. In December the squadron began moving to India, with Carey leading the formation against the Japanese invasion of Burma. In February 1942 he was promoted to wing commander and by the end of the year had shot down nine Japanese aircraft. Carey was taken off operations and sent to RAF Amarda Road in India as Air Officer Commanding (AOC) Air Fighting Training Unit 1 in 1943. In November 1944 he was promoted to group captain and left Burma for Egypt as AOC at OTU 73. Carey was mentioned in the 1945 New Year Honours list. In July 1945 he moved to England as Group Captain Tactics at the Central Flying Establishment until the Japanese surrender on 2 September 1945. Carey was credited with 23 enemy aircraft shot down, six shared destroyed, four unconfirmed destroyed, seven probable, two destroyed on the ground and ten damaged. Of the 23 credited destroyed in air combat, 15 were German and 8 Japanese. Following World War II he spent two years at Staff College, Camberley and continued his career in the RAF until 1958, when he moved to Australia as Air Adviser to the United Kingdom High Commissioner. Carey retired from the RAF in June 1960 and went to work for the Rolls-Royce Aero Engine Division in Australia. On 3 June 1960 he was appointed a Commander of the Order of the British Empire. After his retirement Carey returned to England and died in Chichester, aged 92. Good condition Est. £10 - 14

418 - RAF35c 30th Anniversary of VJ Day signed MRAF Arthur (Bomber) Harris. 15 Aug 75 BFPS 1492 30th Anniversary of VJ Day Special Postmark No 101 Squadron Royal Air Force. 30th Anniversary of VJ Day Flown from RAF Waddington in Vulcan B Mk2 XM575 on a Training Sortie. Personally Signed Marshall of the RAF Sir Arthur Bomber Harris WW1 Pilot. Harris led RAF Bomber Command in World War Two, earning him the nickname 'Bomber Harris'. His implementation of the policy of 'saturation' or 'area' bombing of German cities has made him a hugely controversial figure. Leaving England at the age of 16, he travelled to Rhodesia where he worked on a farm becoming the manager by the age of 21. Having fought in South-West Africa, he returned to Britain and joined the RFC, gaining his RAeC Certificate (No 2015) on 6 November 1915. In March 1916, one of his flight, Lt W Leefe-Robinson, brought down the first Zeppelin over England for which he was awarded a VC. With No 45 Sqn he gained his five victories, thereby raising him to 'ace' status. It was in India that he saw the deplorable state of the RAF in the area and at one point even threatened to resign his commission over the situation. He has often been 'credited' with start 'area bombing', but this decision was made before he took over Bomber Command. However, having been given the task he carried it out with vigour. He also attempted increase the profile of the command and within months of taking over command had managed to mount three '1000 Bomber' raids against Cologne, Essen and Bremen. After the war, shunned by the British authorities, he returned to South Africa and became Managing Director of the South African Marine Corporation (Safmarine). He was eventually honoured when Churchill returned to Downing Street in 1953, but at his own request was awarded a baronet rather than a peerage. He died on 5 April 1984. 500 - Free Front Signed by M F Berkeley 1788-1867 and Capt S J B Pechell Lord of the Admiralty. Free Front dated 24 March 1834 Personally Signed by Maurice Frederick Fitzhardinge Berkeley 1788 - 1867 as a Royal Navy officer. As a junior officer he commanded gunboats on the Tagus, reinforcing the Lines of Torres Vedras, in Autumn 1810 during the Peninsular War and, as a captain, he served on the coast of Syria taking part in the capture of Acre in November 1840 during the Oriental Crisis. He also served as Whig Member of Parliament for Gloucester and became First Naval Lord in the Aberdeen Ministry in June 1854 and in that role focussed on manning the fleet and in carrying out reforms and improvements in the food, clothing, and pay of seamen. Also Signed by Capt S John Brooke Pechell also Lord of the Admiralty. Letter Rear-Admiral Sir Samuel John Brooke Pechell, 3rd Baronet CB, KCH, FRS (1 September 1785 - 3 November 1849) was a prominent British Royal Navy officer of the early nineteenth century. Although he served in several celebrated naval actions of the French Revolutionary and Napoleonic Wars his most important achievements were made while serving as a Lord of the Admiralty, pioneering the science and instruction of rapid and accurate gunnery in the Royal Navy through training facilities and manuals. In addition to his work at the Admiralty, Pechell served in the House of Commons for two constituencies and was on good terms with King William IV, who supported his efforts to improve standards of gunnery and returned him to the Admiralty in 1839 after a five-year absence caused by his support for the Whig government. In 1826 he inherited the Pechell Baronetcy from his father, but died childless and the title passed to his brother George. Pechell was born in Ireland in 1785, the son of Sir Thomas Brooke Pechell and his wife Charlotte. Pechell was well connected in military circles: his father was a senior army officer, as were both his grandfathers, Sir Paul Pechell and Sir John Clavering. His uncle was John Borlase Warren, later to become a senior Royal Navy officer. His younger brother, George Pechell would also become a prominent naval officer. Aged 11, Pechell joined the Royal Navy under the guidance of his uncle, joining HMS Pomone in 1796 during the French Revolutionary Wars. The following year he moved to HMS Phoebe, commanded by Captain Robert Barlow and there remained for the next four years. Under Barlow, Pechell was involved in two significant frigate actions, when Phoebe captured the French frigate Néréide at the action of 21 December 1797 and then the Africaine at the action of 19 February 1801. For his actions in these engagements, Pechell was highly praised and promoted, following Barlow into HMS Triumph in the aftermath of the Africaine action and then moving to HMS Active during the Peace of Amiens in 1803 as a lieutenant. In January 1806, Pechell joined his uncle's flagship HMS Foudroyant and was present at the defeat of the French squadron under Admiral Charles Linois at the action of 13 March 1806. In April 1807, Pechell was given his first independent command, in charge of the brig HMS Ferret operating from Jamaica. In June 1808, he was promoted to post captain and took command of the frigate HMS Cleopatra, in which he joined the squadron being assembled at Barbados for operations against the French islands of Martinique and Guadeloupe. It was while blockading the latter that he served in his most celebrated battle, the action of 22 January 1809. The French frigate Topaze had been forced to take shelter under a gun battery off Pointe-Noire, Guadeloupe, but had been spotted by Pechell's blockade force. Despite fire from the shore, Pechell attacked immediately and brought Cleopatra close inshore to engage Topaze from close range. Pechell's dispositions were so good that Topaze was soon unable to respond, and the arrival of two other Royal Navy ships allowed him to bring his prize out of the bay successfully. The following month, Cleopatra performed a supporting role in the successful invasion of Martinique and later in the year the ship returned to European waters, Pechell briefly moving to HMS Guerriere before returning to Cleopatra in 1811, operating in the North Sea and off Gibraltar. In 1812, Pechell became captain of Warren's flagship HMS San Domingo, the flagship of the North America Station during the War of 1812. Pechell did not see any action and returned to Britain in 1814. The following year the war ended and Pechell entered semi-retirement, being made a Companion of the Order of the Bath in 1815 for his services during the Napoleonic Wars. On 8 June 1940, after the end of Operation Dynamo, he returned to France with the 6th HLI. He fought in the Battle of France with the Second British Expeditionary Force. He was evacuated on 17th June as part of Operation Ariel. General Sir John Hackett G. C. B., CBE., D. S. O., M. C. when he took part in the disastrous parachute landing on Arnhem in Holland, where the Germans were waiting. On the day before the survivors of the 1st Airborne Division were pulled out of Arnhem, Hackett was severely injured internally by a shell splinter. He was taken to a German military hospital and operated on by a captured Allied surgeon, but was regarded as a hopeless case and marked down for kindly hypodermic euthanasia. On the first day he sat up to eat, a member of the Resistance told him that unless he could walk out in the next 15 minutes, he might not be able to get out at all. He escaped with his head in blood-soaked bandages to suggest a civilian air-raid casualty, and was hidden by a Dutch family at risk to their lives. Later, he escaped by bicycle to freedom, his skill at languages enabling him to pass challenges from guards en route and 3 resistance members who helped the Brigadier. Air Vice Marshal Sir Laurence Frank Sinclair GC, KCB, CBE, DSO and Bar (13 June 1908 - 14 May 2001) was awarded the George Cross for rescuing a severely injured airman from a crashed and burning plane. 545 - Piece Eagle Sqn in US Service Signed by 3 Eagle Sqn Pilots in WW11. Piece Size 4 3 /4 by 5 ¾ inches Eagle Sqn in US Service. Personally Signed by 3 Eagle Sqn Pilots Col D Blakeslee, Steve Pisanos, James Goodson Full Details below. Personally Signed by Colonel Don Blakeslee, commander of the 4th Fighter Group. With 133 Eagle Sqn flying the Supermarine Spitfire. He had flown more than 100 sorties in the graceful fighter and been credited with three aerial victories by the time the RAF's three Eagle squadrons were transferred to the U. S. Army Air Forces in September 1942, forming the 4th Fighter Group. To their general displeasure, Blakeslee and the other Americans soon traded their Spitfires for P-47C Thunderbolts. When there was a multiple claim in the group, Blakeslee always gave credit to the junior pilots. Though aggressive in the cockpit, he was no glory hunter. Many of his contemporaries believed he actually destroyed at least 30 German planes during his four years in the European theatre. With almost 500 sorties and about 1, 000 combat hours to his credit, he is believed to have flown more missions and hours than any other American fighter pilot in World War II. Signed by Steve 'Spiroros' Pisanos 71 ES and 334 fighter Sqn was a Greek-American aviator and flying ace who served as a fighter pilot with the British Royal Air Force (RAF) and later the United States Army Air Forces in World War II. 10th victory and while returning from that B-17 escort mission to Limoges and Bordeaux, France, Steve experienced engine failure in his P-S1B

and crash-landed south of Le Havre. For six months he evaded the Germans and worked with the French Resistance and the American OSS sabotaging the German war machine in occupied France. Lt. Pisanos returned to England on 2 September 1944, following the liberation of Paris by Colonel James Goodson USAAF Aboard SS Athenia when torpedoed by U 30 3rd September 1939 Was one of the leading fighter aces of World War 11, officially credited with 32 enemy aircraft destroyed. He was C. O. of 336 Squadron of the US 4th Fighter Group after transferring from the Eagle Squadron. After being Shot down spent 10 Month of the war as a POW Stalag - Luft 111, escaping towards the end of the War to lead the American Army back to the camp. 573 - 1836 Free Front Signed by Sir John Poo Beresford (1768 - 1844). Personally Signed by Sir John Poo Beresford, 1st Bt. (1766-1844), Admiral and Conservative politician: MP for Coleraine, Berwick-upon-Tweed, Northallerton and Chatham. This officer is a son of George, first Marquis of Waterford, K.P., and elder brother of Lieutenant-General Lord Beresford, G.C.B. Early in 1795, we find him commanding the Lynx sloop of war, on the American station, where he captured la Cocarde, a French corvette, of 14 guns and 80 men. On the 25th June, in the same year, he was promoted to the rank of Post-Captain, sometime previous to which he had been appointed to the Hussar, of 34 guns, and assisted at the capture of la Prevoyante, a large frigate, armed en flute, and la Raison, pierced for 24 guns, but only 18 mounted. Captain Beresford's next appointment was to la Prevoyante, and from her he removed, about the month of May, 1796, into la Raison, the force of which latter vessel had been increased to 30 guns, with a complement of 195 men. On the 25th August following, he fell in with the Vengeance, a large 18-pounder French frigate, from which he had the good fortune to escape, after a running fight of considerable duration, in which la Raison had 3 men killed and 6 wounded, besides being much cut up in her sails and rigging. Our officer subsequently commanded l'Unité, of 38 guns, on the Leeward Islands station, where he captured the Perseverance French privateer, of 16 guns and 87 men, Feb. 2, 1800. From l'Unité he removed into the Diana, another fine frigate, in which he was present at the reduction of the islands of St. Bartholomew, St. Martin, by the forces under Rear-Admiral Duckworth and Lieutenant-General Trigge, in the spring of 1801. On the renewal of hostilities in 1803, he obtained the command of the Virginie, a frigate of the largest class; but that ship being paid off in Aug. 1804, he was then appointed to the Cambrian, of similar force, and sent to the Halifax station, where, in the summer of 1805, he captured the following privateers; Matilda, of 20 guns and 95 men; Maria, of 14 guns and 60 men; and a schooner, of 6 guns and 70 men. In the spring of 1807, Captain Beresford commanded the Illustrious, of 74 guns, off Cadiz; and in the ensuing summer, the Theseus, another third rate, employed in the blockade of Rochefort.

On the 21st Feb. 1809, being off l'Orient in company with three line-of-battle ships, he fell in with a French squadron, consisting of 8 sail of the line, one of them a three-decker; and by his spirited conduct, prevented them forming a junction with the ships in that port ready for sea. The enemy afterwards anchored in Basque Roads, where they were blockaded by Rear-Admiral Stopford's squadron, of which the Theseus formed a part until the month of April following, at which period an attack was made upon them in Aix Road, to which they had retired, by a division of Lord Gambier's fleet, preceded by some fire-vessels, under the command of Lord Cochrane, the result of which was the destruction of one 80-gun ship, two 74's, and one of 56 guns. Several others, from getting on shore, if not rendered altogether unserviceable, were at least disabled for a considerable time. Early in 1810, the subject of this sketch was appointed to the Poitier's, a new 74, in which ship he served for some time on the Lisbon station, and was then ordered to the coast of North America. He sailed from Portsmouth, in company with Sir John B. Warren and squadron, Aug. 14, 1812; previous to which he had acted as proxy for his brother, at an installation of the Knights of the Bath, and, as is usual on such occasions, received the honour of knighthood prior to the ceremony. On the 18th of October following, Sir John P. Beresford captured the American ship Wasp, of 20 guns, and retook the British brig of war Frolic, which had been taken by the former a few hours before, after a gallant action of fifty minutes[. The Poitier's subsequently assisted at the capture of the Herald letter of marque, mounting 10 guns, with a complement of 50 men, from Bourdeaux bound to Baltimore, with a cargo; the Highflyer, American privateer, of 5 guns and 72 men; and the York-town, of 20 guns and 140 men. Towards the latter end of 1813, the Poictier's returned to England, and was put out of commission. At the general promotion, June 4, 1814, Sir John P. Beresford, who had been raised to the dignity of a Baronet of Great Britain on the 7th of the preceding month, was advanced to the rank of Rear-Admiral, and soon after hoisted his flag in the Bombay, of 74 guns, from which ship it was subsequently removed into the Duncan, of the same force. About the same period he had the honour of kissing hands on being appointed a naval aid-de-camp to H.R.H. the Prince Regent, then on a visit, in company with the allied sovereigns, to the fleet at Portsmouth. On the 12th Aug. 1819, Sir John P. Beresford was nominated a K.C.B.; and early in the following year he hoisted his flag in the Dover, of 28 guns, as Commander-in-Chief at Leith. He has recently been elected M.P. for Berwick-upon-Tweed.. Good condition Est. £14 - 16

624 - DM16c Mention in Despatches Signed 7 Holders Including R W Oxspring Battle of Britain. 1 May 87 Jersey Airman Mentioned in Despatches. Flown in veteran amphibian Grumman Widgeon. Personally Signed by 7 holders Mentioned in Despatches Air Vice Marshal H Le Bas (Vulcan). Born in Argentina and known as 'Pancho', he joined No 234 Sqn at Ibsley in late 1941 and became involved in cross channel offensive patrols in Spitfire II. However, early in the New Year, he was transferred to No 610 Squadron but looking for a more active role he volunteered for service in the Middle East and was transferred to the newly re-equipped No 601 Squadron. Embarking their Spitfires aboard the USS Wasp in April 1942 they flew their aircraft from the carrier's deck on 20 April to reinforce the defences of Malta. His stay in Malta was short-lived however, when in June 1942, the squadron was transferred to the Western Desert where he took part in armed reconnaissance patrols and ground attack missions in support of the 8th Army advance from El Alamein. A spell as an instructor at Abu Sueir in Egypt was followed in 1944, by receiving command of No 241 Squadron, flying Spitfire VIII/IX's, in Italy, here he was involved in Tactical Reconnaissance and Photographic Reconnaissance, mainly on behalf of the 57th Bomb Wing, USAAF. This would involve carrying out recce sorties followed by landing at the American bases so that bombing missions could be laid on almost immediately. Air Chief Marshal Sir Hugh Constantine (Siskin) As a Group Captain station commander of RAF Elsham Wolds, 'Connie' Constantine insisted on joining the first 1, 000-bomber raid over Cologne in May 1942, an unusual occurrence for an officer of his rank. He was awarded the DSO the same year while commanding Elsham Wolds, and was mentioned in dispatches four times. He began his RAF career as a fighter pilot but soon moved to Bomber Command where he became a protégé of Bomber Harris. As SASO with 1 Group between 1943 and 1944, Constantine was handpicked by Harris to become Deputy SASO at Bomber Command headquarters, before being appointed to succeed Sir Ralph Cochrane as AOC 5 Group in January 1945. During his time with 5 Group, Constantine worked closely with the scientist Barnes Wallis of bouncing bomb fame, also winning praise from General Montgomery for the accurate bombing carried out by his squadrons in support of the Allied crossing of the Rhine in March 1945. After the war he became Deputy Chief of Staff at SHAPE in Paris and later C-in-C Flying Training command before retirement in 1964. He died on 16 April 1992, aged eighty-three. Air Vice Marshal F. S. Hazlewood (Valiant) Born in Buckingham and educated at Kimbolton School, he was under age on the outbreak of war but nevertheless volunteered. With no vacancies for pilots, he signed up as a wireless operator/air gunner and in 1940 joined his first squadron. On the completion of his tour of 30 operations, he undertook a tour as an instructor at a bomber OTU, before being accepted for pilot training, which he undertook in Canada. On completion of his training, he was commissioned and after operational training joined No 224 Squadron, which was then operating Wellingtons over the Indian Ocean from Masirah. On his return to the UK he joined No 14 Squadron in Coastal Command. He continued serving with Coastal Command for about 10 years, in both operational roles and as an instructor. He joined the Examining Wing of the Central Flying School in 1954, where he commanded the multi-engine squadron. After CFS, he took command of No 90 Squadron, equipped with the Valiant, the first of the V-bombers. A couple of anecdotes about his time with No 90 were included in his obituary in The Times: - ""On an exercise to the Far East, Hazlewood led three Valiants in a flypast over Saigon. During the three-day visit he was asked to fly the diminutive Vietnamese Chief of Staff, General Vinh, who, once airborne in the co-pilot's seat but unable to reach the rudder pedals, asked if the aircraft could ""beat up"" the main street of Saigon, culminating in a low pass over the Regent's Palace. After some hesitation, Hazlewood reluctantly agreed. On landing, the general was greeted as a national ""ace"" and the press praised him for flying a British V-bomber in such a daring manner. Hazlewood was glad to leave the next day in case any more requests strained the marvellous hospitality. A few months later, on a visit to California, he and his crew were entertained to a dinner and Hazlewood found himself seated next to the glamorous, busty film actress Jayne Mansfield. He recalled later: ""I cannot remember the meal but I can certainly remember Jayne Mansfield. "" Following command of No 90 Squadron, he joined the planning staff at HQ Bomber Command before moving to RAF Germany in 1962. On his return, he joined Transport Command as OC, RAF Lyneham in Wiltshire. He then spent six months in the Ministry of Defence before returning to RAF Germany as Senior Air Staff Officer. Returning to the UK again, he took up the post of Commandant of the Central Flying School. It was during this appointment that he qualified as a helicopter pilot. In 1972, he took command of No 38 Group and two years later the Jont Warfare Establishment. Retiring from the RAF he bought a run-down farm house and refurbished it himself and became a small-holder Air Chief Marshal Sir A W Heward (Heyford), Anthony Heward joined the RAF on a Short Service Commission shortly after his 18th Birthday and following his basic flying was posted to Egypt to complete his training as a multi-engined pilot with No 216 Sqn. Qualifying as a multi-engined pilot, he returned to Britain and was posted to No 149 Sqn at Mildenhall. Initially flying the biplane Handley Page Heyford, the squadron began to convert to the new monoplane Vickers Wellington in January 1939 and by March the Heyford at been completed replaced. However, by the outbreak of war, he had left the squadron and was assigned to the staff of the Air Component of the BEF based in France. The German invasion of France caused major upheavals and the HQ staff gradually withdrew back towards to the coast and Anthony Heward was eventually evacuated back to Britain by sea. Back in Britain, he was posted as a flying instructor to RAF Sealand in Cheshire. It was here that he first met the WAAF cipher clerk who four years later would become his wife. He remained on instructional duties in the UK until 1942, when he was seconded to the Turkish Air Force, still as a flying instructor but ironically teaching Turkish pilots how to fly the GERMAN Heinkel 111 bomber. Disenchanted with instructing by this time and desperate to join an operational squadron, he accepted an offer from an American pilot visiting Turkey to fly with him back to the USA for a break. Unfortunately he fell ill in the States and was unable to get back to his post on time and was hence reported AWOL. Eventually managing to gain passage back to Britain by sea, he was arrested on arrival at Liverpool by the RAF Police. As an alternative to Court Martial he was offered a posting to an operational bomber squadron, an offer he jumped at with enthusiasm. Posted as a Flight Commander to No 83 Sqn, a Lancaster squadron, then based at Wyton as part of the Pathfinder Force, but shortly afterwards he was promoted to Wing Commander and given command of No 50 Sqn, also equipped with Lancasters, but in No 5 Group. He soon earned the sobriquet 'Smiler' as a result of his coolness and highly disciplined attitude. So when No 97 Sqn was transferred from 8 Group to No 5 and AVM Cochrane (AOC, No 5 Group) considered the discipline in the squadron to be lax he appointed Anthony Heward, as their new CO in order to overcome this problem, a move which was entirely successful. Having completed a staff course at the Staff College in Haifa, he stayed in the Middle East as Personal Staff Officer to the AOC in C, ACM Sir Charles Medhurst. From 1981 to 1989 he sat as a Councillor on Wiltshire County Council. Air Vice Marshal I D Napier Lawson (Comet), Graduating from London Polytechnic in 1934, he joined De Havilland until 1939. In 1938 he joined the RAFVR as a Sergeant but by the time he was called up in 1939, he had only completed 40 hours training. Posted to RAF Cranwell to continue his training he was commissioned on completion and then posted to fly Wellingtons with No

214 Squadron via No 11 OTU. However, after 12 missions with 214 he was sent out to the Middle East where he joined No 148 Squadron. With 148 he took part in operations against targets in North Africa, Greece, Crete, Sicily and Yugoslavia. Taken off operations he became training officer at Group HQ, but was soon on the move back to Britain in order to familiarise himself with the latest developments in techniques then being used by Bomber Command. Having experienced operations in Europe, he returned to the Middle East tasked with adapting these techniques for use in the theatre as Group Captain - Operations at HQ MEAF. Awarded a permanent commission at the end of WW2, he attended the RAF Staff College and proceeded on the normal round of operational commands interspersed with staff postings. At the end of 1964 he returned to where he had begun his RAF career as a Sergeant in 1939, Cranwell, as Commandant of the RAF College. On retirement from the RAF he went back into the aircraft industry, joining BAC in 1969. From 1974 until the formation of British Aerospace in 1979 he was Chief Sales Executive of the Bristol Division at Weybridge. In 1979 he was appointed General Marketing Manager (Civil) of British Aerospace retiring in 1981 to become a non-executive Director of Gloster (Air Holdings) Ltd until the following year. Gp Capt R W Oxspring (Spitfire 9) Dunkirk Battle of Britain Fighter Pilot, Air Chief Marshal Sir A Steedman (Brigand). Alistair Steedman entered the RAF in January 1941 having previously attended Hampton Grammar School. Following completion of his flying training, he was commissioned and posted to No 241 Squadron. Equipped with Mustangs, the squadron was based at Ayr and was involved in Tactical Recce operations in support of the Army When No 241 Squadron was prepared for overseas, he transferred to No 2 Sqn in order to assist them in converting to the Mustang, continuing to fly with No 2 until the end of the war. A spell on staff duties in the Air Ministry was followed by a return to flying when he was given command of No 39 Squadron, then based in the Middle East flying Tempest F6's in the fighter-bomber role. His next command saw him move northwards from the Sudan to Aden where he took over No 8 Sqn equipped with Bristol Brigands. Following retirement, he became Controller of the RAF Benevolent Fund as well as serve on a large number of bodies and organisations. Such organisations have included, the National Advisory Centre for Careers for Women (1988 -), RAF Small Arms Association (Vice Patron 1978 -), Central Flying School Association (Patron 1984 -), International Air Tattoo (Chairman 1981 - 88, Vice-Patron 1988 -) and memberships of the Board of Governors of Gordon School (1987 -) and Hampton School (1976 -). He is credited with designing and implementing an effective, but also controversial, systematic strategic bombing campaign in the Pacific theatre of WW11. During the war, he was known for planning and executing a massive bombing campaign against cities in Japan and a crippling minelaying campaign in Japan's internal waterways. After the war, he unintentionally initiated the Berlin Airlift, then reorganized the Strategic Air Command (SAC) into an effective instrument of nuclear war. He served as Chief of Staff of the U. S. Air Force from 1961 until his retirement in 1965 and by Air Commodore R Dick B17 Flying Fortress Pilot who flew the covers. Brigadier General Frank L Gailer Jr USAF. He then entered the aviation cadet program and received pilot training at Parks Air College, Garden City, Kan., and Eagle Pass, Texas, where he earned his pilot wings and commission as second lieutenant. In September 1943 General Gailer was assigned to Columbia Army Air Base, S. C., for tactical training in the B-25 aircraft and in February 1944 was transferred to P-40 training at Thomasville, Ga. In July 1944 he joined the 357th Fighter Group in England as a P-51 pilot. Flying with the 363rd Fighter Squadron, he was credited with destroying 6 1/2 enemy aircraft before he was shot down in November 1944 and interned by the Germans as a prisoner of war in Stalag One. General Gailer returned to the United States in 1945; and until June 1946, he served as base flight operations officer at Selfridge Field, Mich. He went to the Panama Canal Zone as a squadron commander in the 6th Fighter Wing. On 7 to 8 August 1944 south of Grimbosq, Normandy, France, Captain Jamieson was in command of a company which established a bridgehead over the River Orne. The enemy made seven counter-attacks on the company's position, but throughout 36 hours of bitter and close fighting Captain Jamiesons company didn't give up. Mr T Gould VC Holder was petty officer in the Royal Navy during the Second World War. On 16 February 1942 north of Crete, in the Mediterranean, HM Submarine Thrasher, after attacking and sinking a supply ship, was itself attacked. Thrasher was subjected to a three hour depth charge attack and aerial bombing Later, after surfacing, two unexploded bombs were discovered in the gun-casing. Petty officer Gould and Lieutenant Roberts removed the first one without too much difficulty, but the second bomb had penetrated the side plating of the gun emplacement, and then the deck casing above the pressure hull. Roberts and Gould entered the confined space (which was no more than 2 ft high in places), and lying flat, wormed past deck supports, battery ventilators, and drop bollards. The petty officer then lay on his back with the 150 lb bomb in his arms while the Williams dragged him along by the shoulders. "It was then a matter of the two of us, lying horizontally, pushing and pulling the bomb back through the casing. It was pitch black and the bomb was making this horrible ticking noise while the submarine was being buffeted by the waves Meanwhile, Thrasher was surfaced, stationary, and close inshore to enemy waters. If the submarine was forced to crash dive, both men would drown. It was 50 minutes before they got the bomb clear, wrapped it in sacking, and dropped it over the side. Cover depicts B24 Liberators of No 703 Sqn, No 445 bomb group USAAC. Squadron Commander Lt Col James Stewart RAF Badge 104 Sqn Personally signed Lt. Gen. Ira. C. Eaker. USAF As World War II commander of both the 8th Air Force in England and the Mediterranean Allied Air Forces, Gen. Ira C. Eaker was one of the most important figures in air warfare. April 1945 marked a turning point for Eaker's career and for the something he called the new Air Force. Gen. Ira C. (Clarence) Eaker one of America's great air pioneers. The Ira Eaker Aviation Museum in Dallas is a fitting tribute to the son of a Texas tenant farmer who enlisted as a private in 1917, got his wings at Kelly Field in San Antonio, and ended his career as a four-star general in 1947. The museum is also another in a long list of honors for the man who commanded both the 8th Air Force and the Mediterranean Allied Air Forces during World War II. Eaker was commander of 8th Air Force when it deployed to England in early May 1942. By April 1945, he had accomplished his task by helping defeat Nazi Germany and freeing Western Europe. Before the end of the war, Eaker, like many other Army Air Force leaders, had made up his mind that the military should be reorganized. He wanted the services unified and the air arm to have parity with the Army and Navy. On April 13, his 49th birthday, Eaker was satisfied that the war in Europe was over, and made plans to go back to Washington, according to his biographer. After returning to AAF headquarters in April 1945, Eaker "was in the forefront in developing force structure, redeployment plans and organizational plans for the postwar Air Force, " stated an Air Force history report. The history report also points to Eaker as one of the top men at AAF headquarters in 1945-47, when the AAF fought the successful battle for a separate Air Force. Eaker's executive officer during World War II writes that even before it was fashionable, the general had a nameplate on his desk that read "Air Force Spoken Here. " In 1977, when Eaker was 81, he received the Wright Trophy, given annually to a civilian for aiding the cause of aviation. Two years later, at age 83, he received the Congressional Gold Medal an award first given to George Washington in 1777, and regarded ever since as the noncombatant equivalent of the Medal of Honour. Personally Signed by Gp Capt Livock DFC AFC, Livock was confirmed in his rank in 27 March 1915, and posted to HMS President, before finally seeing active service aboard the Seaplane tender HMS Engadine, based at Rosyth, flying seaplanes on reconnaissance patrols over the North Sea. On 28 June 1915 he was promoted to Flight Lieutenant. He was still at Rosyth during the Battle of Jutland on 31 May 1916, but was afterwards posted to RNAS Great Yarmouth to pilot flying Boats On 30 June 1917 he was promoted to flight Commander and received a mention in despatches on 1 October 1917. On 1 April 1918, the Royal Naval Air Service (RNAS) was merged with the Army's Royal Flying Corps to form the Royal Air Force, and the naval units at Great Yarmouth became No. 73 Wing RAF, in which Livock served alongside Egbert Cadbury and Robert Leckie. Livock was promoted to the temporary rank of major on 23 July 1918, and on 20 September was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross. His citation read: Captain (Temporary Major) Gerald Edward Livock (Sea Patrol). Has rendered valuable services on numerous occasions on reconnaissance patrols in enemy waters, in attacks on hostile seaplanes, and in connection with anti-submarine patrol work. On 1 January 1919 Livock received his second mention in despatches "for distinguished service in war areas". He was then attached to the North Russia Relief Force, flying seaplanes from a base on Lake Onega, during the Russian Civil War and was again appointed a temporary major between 1 May and 29 June 1919. 708 - 50th Anniv Formation of the RAAF RAF Thorney Island Signed Sir Francis Chichester. 13 Au 71 Sydney RAF Thorney island. 50th Anniversary of the Formation of the Royal Australian Air Force RAF Thorney Island. Flown from Sydney to Rose Bay Flying Boat Base Sydney on 19th August 1971 in Sandringham VH - BRF Islander Commanded by Captain Keith Mansfield flt time 3hrs 3 mins. Red flight cachet on the back. Lord Howe Island, 16th August 1971 in Sandringham VH-BRF of Ansett Flying Boat Service. This aircraft was converted from a RNZAF Sunderland MkV (NZ 4108) in 1964, Commanded by Captain Lloyd Maundrell. Flight time 2hrs 45 mins. Personally Signed by Sir Francis Chichester and signed by the aircraft pilot Captain Keith Mansfield. Sir Francis Charles Chichester KBE (17 September 1901 - 26 August 1972), aviator and sailor, was knighted by Queen Elizabeth II for becoming the first person to sail single-handed around the world by the clipper route, and the fastest circumnavigator, in nine months and one day overall. In 1929, he took flying lessons at Brooklands, Surrey, and became a qualified pilot. He then took delivery of a de Havilland Gipsy Moth aircraft, which he intended to fly to New Zealand, hoping to break Bert Hinkler's record solo flight back to Australia en route. Mechanical problems meant the record eluded him; however, he completed the trip in 41 days. The aircraft was then shipped to New Zealand. Finding that he was unable to carry enough fuel to cross the Tasman Sea directly, he had his Gipsy Moth fitted with floats, borrowed from the New Zealand Permanent Air Force, and went on to make the first solo flight across the Tasman Sea from East to West (New Zealand - Australia.) He was the first aviator to land an aircraft at Norfolk Island and Lord Howe Island. Again, the trip was delayed: after his aircraft was severely damaged at Lord Howe, he had to rebuild it himself with the help of islanders. 400 covers issued. Good condition Est. £8 - 10

Then the covers were then parachuted on the Ginkel Heath DZ on Saturday 17 Sep 94, the 50th Anniversary of the Battle of Arnhem by Major Seeking of RHQ PARA. Personally Signed by General Sir John Hackett G. C. B., CBE., D. S. O., M. C. when he took part in the disastrous parachute landing on Arnhem in Holland, where the Germans were waiting. On the day before the survivors of the 1st Airborne Division were pulled out of Arnhem, Hackett was severely injured internally by a shell splinter. He was taken to a German military hospital and operated on by a captured Allied surgeon, but was regarded as a hopeless case and marked down for kindly hypodermic euthanasia. On the first day he sat up to eat, a member of the Resistance told him that unless he could walk out in the next 15 minutes, he might not be able to get out at all. He escaped with his head in blood-soaked bandages to suggest a civilian air-raid casualty, and was hidden by a Dutch family at risk to their lives. Later, he escaped by bicycle to freedom, his skill at languages enabling him to pass challenges from guards en route. Enclosed detailed inserts cards. Certified Copy No 680 of 850. Personally Signed by Sir Arthur Gregory George Marshall (4 December 1903 - 16 March 2007) was a British aviation pioneer and businessman, Marshall Aerospace. Marshall's company built under subcontract the famous droop nose for Concorde. He learned to fly in 1928, and shortly thereafter created an airstrip near his family's Cambridge home, which by 1929 had turned into a full-fledged airfield. Six years later, Marshall and his father, David, bought the land where the present Cambridge Airport now stands and started Marshall Aerospace. During World War II, Marshall's played a key role in training over 20, 000 pilots and flying instructors. Under Sir Arthur's guidance, the firm became the UK's largest aircraft repairer, fixing or converting 5, 000 planes during the war. Over the years, such major airplane manufacturers as De Havilland, Bristol, Vickers and English Electric have entrusted Marshall's with the servicing of their aircraft. Thompson 3rd Commando Brigade RM Falkland Campaign and, in that role, was British land commander on the Falkland Islands during the first phase of the conflict ashore also signed by Rear Admiral Gueritz CB OBE DSC was a principal beach-master on Sword beach on June 6 1944, landing at around 8am, as he put it "part of the beach group whose job it was to make order out of chaos". He was responsible for helping landing craft beach, unload troops or tanks and then retract safely so that the next craft could come in. It wasn't new to Gueritz - he'd already been the principal beach-master in the Madagascar landings in 1942. Gueritz was on Sword Beach for 19 days until he was wounded. "I had just put my helmet on but didn't duck quickly enough, " he recalled. It wasn't until he removed his helmet at the field hospital much later that he noticed the big hole in it and the wound to his head. Without the helmet (and without the skill of a neurosurgeon back home in Britain), Gueritz knows he would not have survived. Good condition Est. £8 - 10

839 - 30th Anniv Concorde 1st Passenger Flight Signed J Cochrane Co - Pilot on 1st Flight. 21 01 06 Heathrow 30th Anniversary The First Passenger Flight and with Set of 3 Concorde Stamps date stamped 30th Anniversary London - Bahrain. Personally Signed John Cochrane Concorde Test Pilot. On 9 April 1969, John Cochrane flew as co-pilot on the maiden flight of Concorde 002 with B Trubshaw as chief test pilot. Exactly five weeks after, the French sister aircraft first flew. Cochrane would stay with the Concorde test programme for its entirety. Concorde finally acquired its certificate of airworthiness in December 1975 and flew commercially for the first time with British Airways on 21 January 1976. Cochrane piloted Concorde 002 for many of its proving flights and commanded Concorde 101 on its trials. He had specific responsibility for the engine intake control system, which required him to test the aircraft to the limits of its speed, altitude and ability to carry a payload of passengers over the most likely potential routes at Mach 2 He commanded Concorde 101 when it reached its fastest supersonic speed of Mach 2.23 and a height of 68,000 feet. Cochrane also established record sub-three-hour transatlantic crossings in both directions. Both Cochrane and Trubshaw insisted on many changes as they began testing on Concorde. One of the first problems they encountered was the protective visor on the front window, which, with two narrow slits, left them with a good view of the clouds but limited visibility for landing. They also encountered problems as they flew the Concorde prototype to its maximum speed of Mach 2.2. When they decided to turn off the re-heat system, the Olympus jet engines went into a cyclic surge condition known as a 'forward firing backfire'. The French had experienced the same problems and the British insisted that the engine controls be changed from an analogue to a digital system. This was one of the main reasons that led to soaring costs and the seven-year delay. On one occasion in 1974, Cochrane was flying Concorde 002 when one of its undercarriage legs would not lock in the down position whilst preparing for landing. He safely made an emergency landing and it led to another vital modification on the aircraft. Certified Copy no 16 of 350. Buckingham Cover Ref Concorde 005. Good condition Est. £8 - 10

Personally Signed by Harold R Harris US WW1 Fighter Pilot, Test Pilot first membership in the Caterpillar Club. Harold Ross Harris (December 20, 1895 - July 28, 1988) was a notable American test pilot and U. S. Army Air Force officer who held 26 flying records. Graduated in July 1917. After graduation he was sent to Europe for flight training where he helped set up the 8th Aviation Instruction Center for the Allied Expeditionary Force in Foggia, Italy. After 181 minutes of dual instruction time, he soloed, and shortly afterward was named Chief Instructor for both day and night training. He served at Foggia from March to July 1918. While there Harris flew Farman and Caproni bombers. On July 25, 1918, Harris along with co-pilot, George Lewis, led the first successful flight by American pilots over the Alps, crossing from Italy to France in four Caproni bombers. While based in Italy Harris also helped the United States Navy establish an aerial ferry route from Ilan to Paris. Successfully tested the world's first pressurized aircraft, Harris became one of the Army's most important experimental test pilots. On October 20, 1922 Harris made history as the first pilot to bail out of a stricken aircraft using a free-fall parachute. Harris was flying a Loening monoplane pulling the control stick from his hands. Facing a certain crash, Harris bailed out of the stricken aircraft, For his survival Harris was awarded the first membership in the Caterpillar Club, a club for aviators who have bailed out of stricken aircraft and survived. The name refers to the insect that produces the Silk used in parachutes. Good condition Est. £8 - 10

The Comete line Escape route from Germany, Holland and Luxembourg via Belgium and France and over the Pyrenees to Spain and on to Gibraltar was one of the most successful operated in WW11. 770 Aircrew were rescued in doing so 216 helpers lost their lives and over 700 others were arrested and remained prisoners until after WW11. Cover was taken on the Southern Ferries MV Panther to San Sebastian and by courier to Bayonne. It was then carried across the border into Spain and subsequently to Gibraltar, Whence it was flown on a training flight to the UK. Personally Signed by Yvonne Lapeyre who worked for the Comete line in Bayonne, was forced to flee from the Gestapo in February 1943 and joined the free French in England, Lucienne Dassie a courier for her parents who played a major role in the Pyrenees Area towards the initial success of the comet evasion route. In February 1943 they were arrested by the Gestapo and although severely interrogated refused to reveal any details of the organisation. Lucienne then only 16 Years old, together with her parents was deported to Germany. Len Barnes was shot down over France on the night of March 15th 1944. He was returning from a bombing mission to Stuttgart with 630 Squadron, operating from East Kirby in Lincolnshire. After bailing out he was initially sheltered by a French farmer, before making contact with the local Maquis who made arrangements for him to travel to Paris. On arrival in Paris, Len was sheltered by members of the Comet line together with Sergeant Ron Emeny and three American serviceman. Ron Emeny AFM was an air gunner 207 Squadron at Spilsby near Skegness Lincolnshire. On the 3rd May 1943 whilst returning from a bombing sortie his aircraft was shot down by Fighters. Badly burnt he baled out and landed near Troyes in the Loire Valley. He was rescued by members of the local Maquis and taken to a doctor or treatment. When he was fit, he lived and fought with them for a further eight months before starting the long journey home. From Paris Ron Emeny together with Len Barnes and the 3 Americans travelled by train with couriers of the Comet Line to Bayonne and the Pyrenees. They crossed the Mountains into Spain on the morning of the Allied landings in Normandy, 6th June 1944. Currant DSO DFC Battle of Britain pilot. WWII Ace. 10 destroyed. Daphne Pearson GC The 1st Woman to win the George Cross Holder. Daphne Mary Pearson, GC was a Women's Auxiliary Air Force officer during the Second World War and one of only thirteen women recipients of the George Cross, the highest decoration for gallantry not in the face of an enemy that can, or could, be awarded to a citizen of the United Kingdom or the Commonwealth. Cpl Pearson ran on to the burning wreck and found the two pilots still strapped in their seats. She quickly saw the co-pilot was dead, but she was able to unharness the pilot and drag him from his seat and clear of the wreckage. He recovered consciousness enough to warn her there were bombs still onboard. Realising that at any moment the Anson would explode, Cpl Pearson used all her strength to drag the injured airman away and over the small ridge she had previously stumbled over. Covering his face with her own tin helmet, there was just time for her to fling her body on top of his to shield him as the aircraft blew up. The small ridge they were sheltering behind protected them from the shrapnel and blast wave. Details enclosed Certified Copy 221 of 758 additional Signed by Daphne Pearson. 1003 - WW11 Battle of Britain Pilot Profile Signed H M Stephen. Personally Signed by Wg Cdr H M Stephen DSO DFC 74 Squadron 1940 During Battle of Britain Aircraft Flown including Hurricane and Spitfire. Joined the RAFVR in April 1937 as an Airman u/t Pilot and learned to fly at 13 EandRFTS White Waltham. Having achieved the required standard and number of flying hours, Stephen was offered the chance to train with the regular RAF for six months and was given six months leave of absence from his job. He began training at 11 Group Fighter Pool at St. Athan in early September 1939 and after converting to Hurricanes was posted to 605 Squadron at Tangmere on the 20th, as a Sergeant-Pilot. On 28th March 1940 Stephen was flying in Yellow Section when a He111 was sighted, 605's first encounter with the Luftwaffe. The section leader damaged the bomber and 43 Squadron later shot it down. Commissioned in April, Stephen was posted to 74 Squadron at Hornchurch on the 7th and joined it on the 10th. Over Dunkirk on 24th May he shared in destroying a Hs126 and a Do17, on the 26th shared another Hs126 and on the 27th destroyed a Me109 and shared a Do17. On 28th July Stephen damaged a Me109, on 11th August he destroyed a Me109, probably destroyed two Me109s and two Me110s and damaged a Me109 and a Me110, on the 13th he probably destroyed a Do17, on 11th September destroyed a Ju88 and damaged a Me109, on 1st October damaged a He111 and on the 5th shared a Do17. Stephen claimed a Me109 destroyed and probably another on 20th October, a Me109 destroyed on the 27th, three Ju87s destroyed on 14th November, a Me109 damaged on the 15th, two Me109s shared on the 17th and 30th, a Me109 probably destroyed on 2nd December and two Me109s destroyed and another shared on the 5th. He was awarded the DFC (gazetted 27th August 1940), a Bar to the DFC (gazetted 15th November 1940) and the DSO (gazetted 24th December 1940). On 30th November 1940 Stephen and F/Lt. JC Mungo-Park (above) shared the shooting down of the 600th German plane credited to RAF Biggin Hill. The combat occurred at 34, 000 ft. which was at that time a record altitude for air combat. On 11th January 1941 Stephen was posted away to 59 OTU Turnhouse as CFI, but this was altered to secondment to the RAE Farnborough. In June 1941 Stephen was posted to Portreath, to help form 130 Squadron. He took command of 234 Squadron at Warmwell in late July. On 12th August Stephen damaged a Ju88 and on 15th October he shared in the destruction of a Me109. He led 234 until early 1942, when he was posted to the Far East. Stephen became a member of the Caterpillar Club on 25th April 1942, when he baled out of an aircraft, which caught fire at 4000 feet. He landed safely at Karapara, twelve miles NE of Barapore, near Calcutta. He was Wing Leader at Dum Dum and then Jessore, he later commanded 166 Fighter Wing, went to HQ 224 Group, Fighter Ops and then to Air Command South East Asia, as Ops A.
